ABSTRACT

A proton conductive composition comprises a heteropolyacid and a polyarylene having a sulfonic group. The composition has good water resistance and toughness, and shows an excellent proton conductivity without any treatment to increase the acid concentration in the sulfonated polyarylene. A proton conductive membrane is also provided that is derived from the composition.